Summer Reading Club 2012

Get a Clue @ the Library!
¡Investiga en la Biblioteca!

Kids who read do better in school and in life. It's a fact! Recent studies show that children who remain intellectually engaged during the summer will perform better when school starts up again. One of the ways parents can help their children beat Summer Learning Lag is by enrolling them in programs such as El Paso Public Library's Summer Reading Club. Children who enroll will take part in hundreds of programs and activities designed to enlighten, entertain and engage. Best of all they're FREE! Summer Reading Club registration begins June 2. Children are asked to read 8 books or for 8 hours depending on their reading level. It's all FREE!

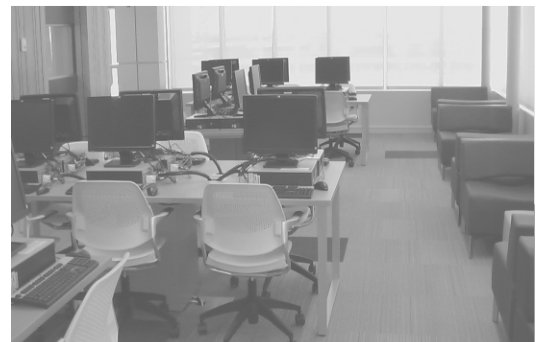

EPPL Association gives gift of books

The El Paso Public Library Association, a non-profit support organization for EPPL, recently donated $3000 for bilingual children's books to the Library. Pictured here are several members of the Association along with Library Director, Dionne Mack, holding some of the titles that were purchased with the donation. The Association also made it possible to frame a generous donation of artwork to the José Cisneros Branch Library of priceless José Cisneros prints.

Family Literacy Center opens at EPCC Northwest

Parents and children are encouraged to learn together at El Paso's newest state or the art learning center at the Jenna Welch and Laura Bush Library at EPCC Northwest campus. The learning center as well as the Library are open and available to the public during working hours. For more information call 831-8840.

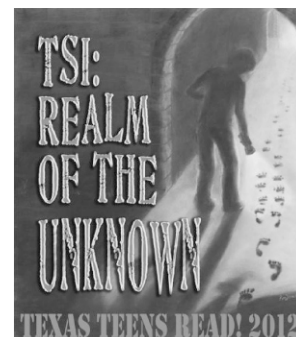

SIGN-UP FOR SUMMER READING CLUB - IT'S FREE!
